

Agriscience education and other school choice programs are often overlooked and unequally funded. The cost for agriculture and environmental education in particular falls in large part to the sending towns. Is no wonder the programs are shrinking? Students should have access to these programs with the same funding as with other programs. Feeding and protecting our world is critical to everyone. Our state should be doing everything in their power to prepare students for all areas of study with the same priority.

Please support Bill #5283 An Act Concerning the Education Cost Sharing Grant Formula and the Funding of other Education Programs

Barbara Jones
Woodstock, CT